Bluenotes GLOBAL 2019 CONFERENCE

Panel:

Use of Feedback Data for a Wider Range of Outcomes: Opportunities and Challenges

August 5, 2019

UNIVERSITY OF LOUISVILLE. explorance. bluenotes group

Panel Members:

- Bob Goldstein, Vice Provost, University of Louisville
- Stephanie Klein, Assistant Director, University of Minnesota
- Justin Fletcher, Manager, McGill University
- Brad Wuetherick, Executive Director, Dalhousie University

Moderator: Yeona Jang, Explorance

What's your department's roles & responsibility in your institution and who do you collaborate with, with respect to collecting and using student feedback data?

What's the key change/big eye opener with the implication to the future that you have seen over the past 3 years in your area?

Can Institutions do more with the data they collect through course evaluations? What do you see over the next 3 years in your area?

What's the question you are most tired of hearing on this subject of collecting and using student feedback data, and what would you like to say about it so you never have to answer it again?

Questions from Audience

Closing Question:

What is one piece of practice advice you would give to someone considering expanding the use of feedback data for a wider range of outcomes?

Thank you!